Board Member Spotlight

Mr. Justin Knight began in his role of the Membership Director for the Robins AFB Post in January 2021; however, he has been a member of the Post since 2005. After graduating from Georgia Tech in 2003 with a degree in Civil and Environmental Engineering, he was hired by an environmental consulting company in Warner Robins that was performing a large remediation project on Base. He worked on that large job for about the first four years of his consulting career; living in Centerville for a year and then commuting from Atlanta every week. In May 2009, Justin started his career at Geosyntec Consultants out of Kennesaw, GA where he works today. At Geosyntec, Justin has continued to manage and execute environmental contracts at Robins AFB. The Base has been an integral part of his 21-year consulting career, and he is glad to call Warner Robins his second home. As Membership Director for the Robins AFB Post, Justin routinely updates our Post roster to ensure Post communications reach our members. In his role on Geosyntec's Air Force and Army business development teams, Justin regularly attends other local, regional, and national SAME events such as industry days, JETC, and the annual small business conference. At these events and outside of his "day job", Justin is representing the Robins AFB Post and continually recruiting new members and corporate sponsors to join the Robins AFB Post. Justin urges our members to take advantage of all that a SAME membership offers for both professional and personal growth, including continuing education, networking, and leadership opportunities.

SAME Vision

"To be a premier global engineering organization leading the professional and personal growth of all members in support of military readiness and development of solutions to national security challenges."
